Spring and Summer 1899

A GAIN we present to distant customers a copy of our semi-annual publication, expressly compiled for use during spring and summer of 1899. In it will be found as concise a list of all stocks as could be obtained at time of publication.

We wish to state, however, that as we are in weekly receipt of latest novelties in all such goods as are subject to the changes of fashion, it becomes impossible to do our stock justice in any one issue like the present. All we can say is that this season we have made the most extensive and complete arrangements for keeping right up to time with European fashion points in our display here; and trust to be favoured with inquiries, should the item required not be found listed herein.

We have adhered rigidly to our well-known custom in selecting warrantable makes only, and keeping prices down to the lowest possible point for such goods.

Ordering by Mail.

- Samples—1. When ordering, please state as definitely as possible the style and make required. By being careful to state the range of price it saves unnecessary bulk and consequent saving in postage each way.
2. Never cut samples. Pin "choice coupons," as supplied on sample chosen, with quantity marked.
3. Make more than one choice if possible, and say if we may further substitute.

4. Immediate return of samples is absolutely necessary, and chance of obtaining first choice is thereby increased.
5. Never enclose writing with samples as it is against post-office regulations, and renders sender liable to fine.

Remittances—Express orders, postal notes, post-office orders, bank drafts or registered letters are the most convenient means of sending money.
